

PUZZLED

I always felt different, like I just didn't fit.

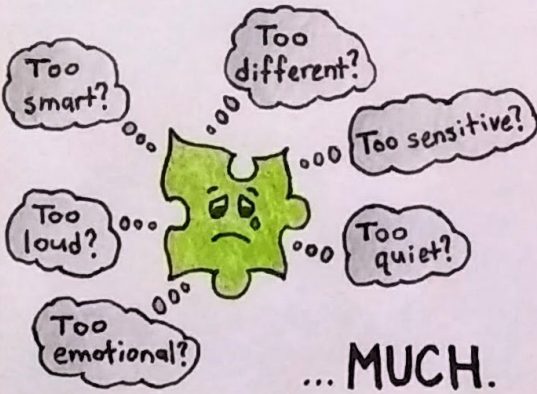

I could fit for a while, with just a few others,

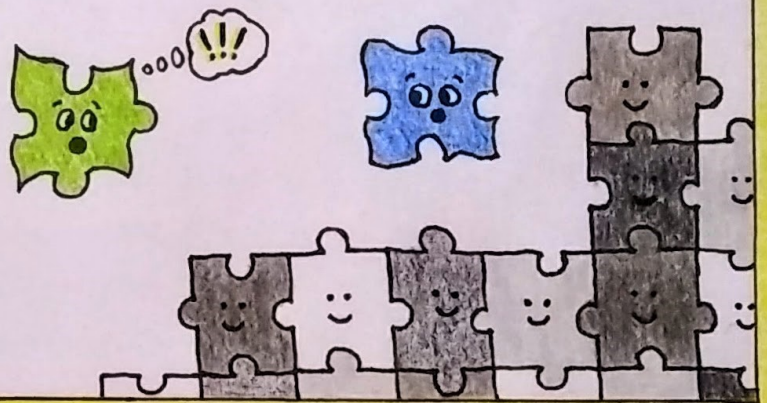

but that never lasted long.

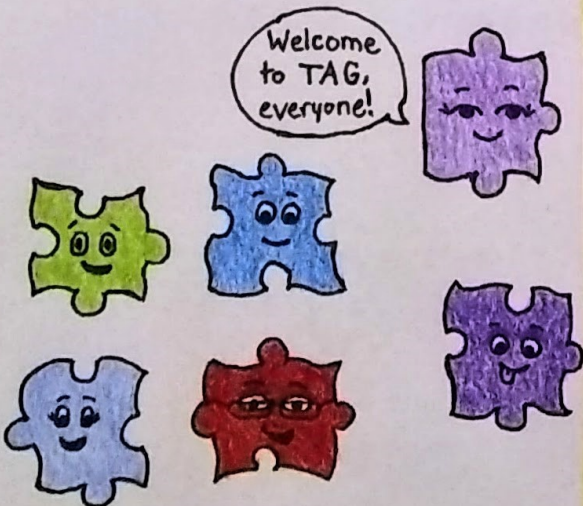

I decided I was just too...

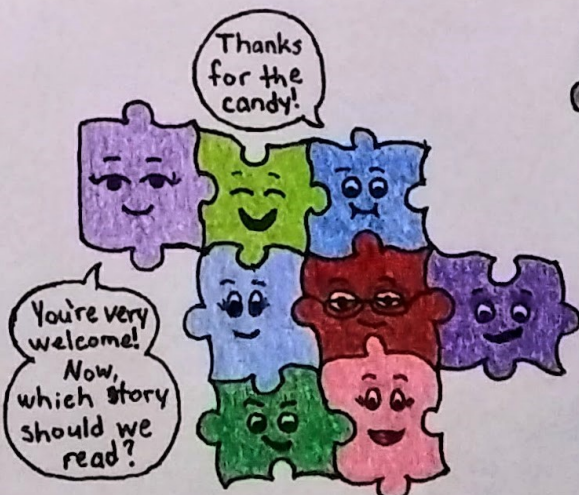

One day, I met someone like me.

In high school, I found even more.

It turns out we're not broken or misshapen.

We're just part of a different puzzle.